Led by a director, Mrs. Robin Gosai, and with Curriculum Coordinator Sarah David, the group will meet 1-2 times monthly, offering diverse hands-on activities like Lego challenges, creative writing, first aid kit assembly, Spanish courses, and fishing days. Wishing to be supported by volunteers from parents, high school, and college students, the initiative seeks to encourage creativity, teamwork, and face-to-face communication while promoting children's emotional, physical, and mental health. With a request of $2,000, the program plans to sustain itself through membership fees, community donations, and potential fundraising, while anticipating challenges such as location, scheduling, costs, and transportation.

The grant request of $2,000 covers four program activities, with approximate per-person costs, allowing for one $25 LEGO prize and participation for 28 people in the remaining programs
